

One day in Montréal

There is no place in the world quite like Montréal. With European sophistication and North American innovation, the city is a playground for those who seek “wow” moments. If you have a day to explore Montréal, here are a few things to see and to do.

© LOTO ROMER

Mount Royal, the natural heart of the city

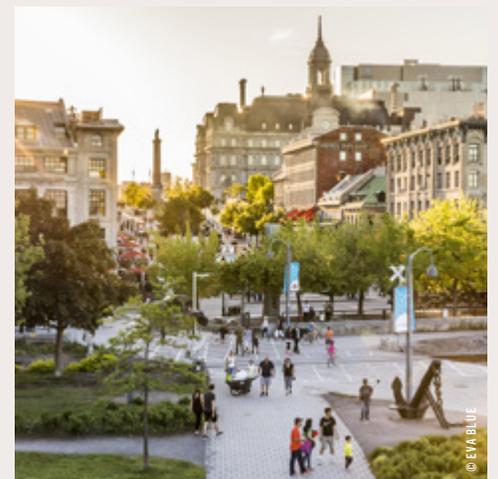

Montréal's iconic mountain park has plenty of space to roam. The gentle giant offers a relaxing escape for nature lovers, sports enthusiasts, families, and anyone who just wants to take a breather.

© MANDIE - DAPHNE CARON

Old Montréal's architectural treasures gleam

Historic Old Montréal teems with contemporary life among antique beauty, stunning architecture, and breathtaking views. Don't miss the modern boutiques and decadent bistros tucked in buildings nearly four centuries old.

© EVA BLUE

Business events /
Montréal

One day in Montréal

Montréal's famous food culture

Montréal is famous for its food, from a wildly innovative restaurant scene to tried-and-true local culinary traditions. Avant-garde wine bars, swanky bistros, and casual eateries all make Montréal's food experiences as spectacular as they are delicious. The ultimate epicurean paradise.

Every neighbourhood has its personality

Montréal's neighbourhoods are like the members of a loveable extended family. They each have their personality, their qualities, and their tastes. All put together, they make Montréal the eclectic and charming city that it is.

Montréal's museums and culture captivate

Immerse yourself in history and culture, art and invention, hands-on science and galactic discoveries—it's all within reach at Montréal's many museums and galleries.

C2 Montréal

If you're visiting in the springtime, discover C2 Montréal. This immersive three-day conference unites international businesspeople with the goal of exploring innovative solutions to contemporary challenges.

Bagels

Part of the joie de vivre culture of Montréal includes chowing down on great grub. Montréal locals fervently adore their wood-fire bagels from bakeries in the Mile End neighbourhood. (Clue: the bagels are dipped in honey water before baking).

Ready for more?

Reach out to start planning a Montréal experience.

Norma J. Taylor
Regional Manager
312 787-6564
ntaylor@mtl.org

Meetings.mtl.org

Business events / Montréal